

Why people don't like or eat venison!

Before I got into processing venison for other people I used to wonder why so many would tell me that they, their family, or their friends would not eat or did not like venison. Many would mention that it tasted “wild”, which I’ve never noticed. Others would tell me that they always had it made into smoked sausage only because then it didn’t “taste like venison.”

Now after years of processing venison for others, I have solved the question! It is not the animal that makes for poor eating of venison; it’s the human that handles it!

The following are pictures from a deer that was brought in for processing after supposedly being “field dressed.”

- 1) The first picture shows no attempt was made to cut around and remove the rectum.
- 2) The second picture shows that the pelvic area was not cleaned; the yellow circle shows where the colon was severed.
- 3) The last picture shows the mix of surprises that we removed from this deer!
